Outer Banks Seafood Festival Seeking Bands

Bands Interested in Performing During the Festival Are Encouraged to Apply

Nags Head, N.C. – Outer Banks Seafood Festival organizers are now receiving applications from area bands interesting in playing at the October 17th Festival. In just a few short years, the Festival has grown into a “must-attend” event for thousands of locals and visitors. The day’s live performances and musical entertainment are a key part of the Festival’s appeal, and a great way for bands to connect with a large, appreciative audience.

Application forms are available at
OuterBanksSeafoodFestival.org/get-involved/performers-entertainers/.

If you believe your band has already submitted an application packet for the 2015 Festival, please confirm that the organizers have your information by calling the Entertainment Committee at 757-880-7847. Likewise, previous year performers are advised to submit a new application packet for 2015. The Entertainment Committee of the Festival will review all packets and make a recommendation to the Seafood Board. The deadline for applications is July 31, 2015.

The 2015 Outer Banks Seafood Festival is presented by TowneBank and the Outer Banks Visitors Bureau. This year’s Festival will be held on Saturday, October 17th at The Soundside event site in Nags Head. The Soundside, formerly known as the Outer Banks Event Site, has undergone an extensive redesign and enhancement in recent months and looks forward to welcoming guests of the Seafood Festival. For more information about the Festival, visit outerbanksseafoodfestival.org.
